SOLIDO FEATURES

The Solid Floor

This laminate flooring comes in the 8mm thickness that tends to be a happy medium amongst other thicknesses available. It meets the needs of most residential areas, and makes for a quick fix to a floor issue in any room of your home. The 8mm Solido Perform & Elite gives you a nice wear layer with a solid floor to walk on.

Faster Installation

This laminate flooring is installed using the Megaloc system, that is a leader in laminate locking systems because of its simplicity. You also don't have to beat up your new planks while installing them by using a tapping block. The installation process is also much faster when installing Megaloc laminate flooring versus buying tools to install other locking systems.

Simulates Hardwood Floor

It is set in the V Groove form. V-groove flooring is a type of laminate that's designed to offer the appearance of a hardwood floor by mimicking its look and feel more closely than other flooring products.

V-groove laminate floorboards slot together very easily, so installation is a doddle, and they are wallet friendly compared to most solid wood floors.

Fit For Fitting

This flooring falls in the abrasion category of AC4, designed for light commercial use like small shops. The higher the AC Rating on a laminate floor, the more durable it is in everyday situations. AC ratings allow you to compare products as you shop for the perfect laminate.

Not having any type of AC rating indicates they failed to meet the minimum industry requirements.
